Research Interests:

Currently, I am serving as a liaison person for cancer research by assisting researchers and clinicians with the recruitment of suitably qualified nurses for cancer research projects. As head of nursing programme at Sunway University, I have been involved in the development of nursing programme that provides educational trainings to students who are interested in a traditional nursing career. However, in order to provide alternative career options, we strongly encourage graduates of our nursing programme to explore other non-traditional career opportunities, including clinical research careers for nurses who are interested in clinical and biomedical research by providing assistance to clinicians and biomedical researchers in their research investigations, which potentially could lead to developments of new therapies for cancer treatment.
