

Name: Dr Ng Shir Li

BCom Melb, BBus (Hons), PhD RMIT

Position: Lecturer

Email: shirlin@sunway.edu.my

Profile:

Dr Ng Shir Li is a Lecturer with Sunway University Business School. Dr Ng joined the Department of Banking, Accounting and Finance, Sunway University Business School in 2014. She obtained her PhD in Accounting from RMIT University, Australia and two Bachelor's degrees- Bachelor of Business (Hons) in Accounting from RMIT University, Australia and Bachelor of Commerce majoring in Accounting and Finance from the University of Melbourne, Australia. Dr Ng has more than seven years of significant experience working in several accounting firms and academic institutions, locally and in Australia. She currently holds the position of the Lecturer Advisor for Sunway University Accounting and Commerce Society.

Teaching Experience:

Dr Ng's teaching interest are in the area of financial reporting. She has taught accounting at both diploma and degree levels. She is currently teaches ACC2014 Financial Accounting at the Sunway University Business School.

Research Interests:

Dr Ng's research interests are in the areas of financial reporting and corporate governance. Her research has examined the role effectiveness of audit committees' governance characteristics in achieving quality and independence for the internal and external auditing functions of large public listed companies. She is also interested in international financial accounting standards especially on the value relevance of earnings and equity before and after IFRS adoption.

Professional Membership / Affiliation:

- CPA Australia
- LCCI